Winter/Spring

2016/2017 Workshops & Painting Retreats

Join painter Michael Chesley Johnson for four half-days of outdoor painting in Sedona, Arizona and the Verde valley.

Michael offers three types of workshops: a traditional workshop for all levels; an intermediate/advanced workshop; and special workshops. The price of any workshop is $300. Each week is limited to 4 students. $150 deposit required.

What is a Traditional All-Level Workshop?

All levels of student are welcome, from beginner to advanced. Students may work in pastel or oil or other medium by arrangement. They can expect daily lectures and demonstrations on the basics plus personal help at the easel. (Michael will work in oil or pastel.)

What is an Intermediate/Advanced Workshop?

This workshop is for students with significant plein air experience. Here, you'll have the chance to learn the finer elements of painting, information that usually isn't handled in a regular workshop. Michael will paint, and participants can enjoy it as a demo, or paint along, or paint on their own. Although there won't be formal lectures, we'll have critiques daily and informal art talk.

Or, if you just want to paint with a "guide" without reevaluating your life, you can do that, too! You can consider it a painting holiday or artist retreat, or just a time to paint without instruction and to meet other artists.

What is a Special Workshop?

Some weeks have special topics such as advanced design, advanced color, Hiking to Paint, Exploring the Verde Valley and more. These are described on the website and are for advanced painters. (Note: Hiking to Paint requires participants to be able to hike 1/2 mile with their painting gear.)

Customized Workshops!

If you can get four people together, Michael will customize a workshop for you. If you're looking for a pastel-only workshop, this is for you!
